

Olympic Village
Contractor: Graup Gips-Bau
Category: Residential

The Olympic Village in Innsbruck represents the habitat concept in an impressive way: the building designed according to passive-house standards, was built to accommodate 1600 athletes at the Youth Olympic Games 2012 held in the capital city of the Austrian federal state of Tyrol. The project was planned with foresight, with the aim of subsequent reuse as non-profit housing for 444 families and assisted living for senior citizens; the complex includes a police station as well as a percent-for-art programme.

Olympic Village
Contractor: Graup Gips-Bau
Category: Residential

Graup Gips-Bau GesmbH, founded in 1998, is well-known for implementing demanding projects in fire and radiation protection, heat and soundproofing as well as acoustics. Top trained employees as well as the implemented quality management guarantee quality workmanship. The company is also well-known for flexibility while keeping to deadlines.

Owner: Neue Heimat Tirol

Architect: Peter Reiter Architekten ZT GmbH, Reitter Architekten ZT GesmbH, eck.architektur, Architekturwerkstatt din a4 GmbH

Main Contractor: Graup Gips-Bau

Drylining/ plaster contractor: Graup Gips-Bau

Photography: Studio 22, Christof Lackner

Saint-Gobain Team: Günther Plattner

More info:
www.ggb.co.at